SAILOR IS SHOT DURING ANOTHER BARROOM FRAY

Man From French Ship Seriously Wounded In Boone Road Cafe

FIGHT ABOUT DANCERS

Police Not Informed; Alleged Assailant Surrenders To French Authorities

Following hard upon the heels of the Hazelton tragedy in "The Trenches" comes another shooting affray, and again the toll is a man in hospital with a bullet wound which may mean his death.

The affair occurred during the New Year's festivities and so quietly was it kept by the people involved and those to whom its attention was most necessarily drawn that, although the shooting was done in the Hongkew District of the Settlement, the Municipal police were not appraised of the facts until last night.

The victim of the affair is reported to be a sailor from the French vessel Commandant Marges, now lying off Yangtszepoo in the Whangpoo, and another man, named Rossi, from the same ship, is being held by the French police as the one who fired the shot.

The trouble occurred in a bar known as "The Naval Club" on the Boone Road. There were evidently two groups of French sailors in the place. At one table sitting with the men, were two dancing girls. One of the sailors at another table approached the first group and demanded a dance with one of the girls. All of the men are reported as being drunk and an altercation ensued, as a climax for which it is stated that Rossi pulled a small-calibre Browning automatic from his pocket and shot his comrade through the chest.

The man charged with firing the shot immediately went back to his ship and later, acting under the advice of his commander, gave himself up to the French authorities. The wounded man was rushed to St. Mary's Hospital and an operation was performed. It was found that the bullet, after entering his breast, fortunately had been deflected to the right, but it is stated that his condition is extremely serious.

The man who gave himself up is being held to await the outcome before being brought to trial.

The French police last night refused to give out any details regarding the affair and the Hospital would not make any statement.

Nearly All Except Crew On Spanish Vessel Lose Lives

(Reuter's Service)

Madrid, Jan. 4.—Details regarding the wreck of the Santa Isabel show that the survivors, numbering 56, are mostly members of the crew, while the death roll of 254 names includes nearly all of the 240 passengers on board.

The loss of so many passengers is explained by the fact that the catastrophe occurred at two o'clock in the morning, the vessel being thrown on the rocks and quickly cut in twain.

Peking, January 5.—The Waichiaopu on December 31 addressed a note to the Japanese Legation on the subject of the sinking of a Chinese gunboat in the Amur River by a Japanese gunboat soon after the Nikolaievsk massacre.

The note recounted the details of the incident and requested an expression of regret, punishment of the officers and men responsible, indemnification for the damage inflicted and a colatium.

U.S. Post Office Clogged With Mail Not Yet Called For

The handling of mails at the American Post Office is being seriously hampered by the failure of people to call for matter being held for them or to empty their boxes. Postmaster E. H. Everett said yesterday that there were letters in boxes in the Post Office that had been in them for four days uncalled for and the rooms of the postal establishment are packed with matter, much of it books, magazines and publications, that have been held indefinite periods, although repeated notices had been sent out to addressees.

When the rooms become filled with accumulations of the kind, the Postmaster explained, it is impossible to distribute newly arriving matter which must remain piled in the bags. For this reason all the matter from the steamer Nanking, which arrived last Saturday, had not yet been opened and distributed yesterday.

NEW SOCIALIST PARTY IN FRANCE KEEPS OLD IDEA

Communists Submission To Foreign Interfence Is Cause Of Split

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 3.—At the first meeting of the new French Socialist party—as distinct from the Communistic party—a declaration was read, outlining the party's program, which is to continue the traditions set up by the great Socialist leaders Jaures, Guesde and Vaillant.

It ascribes the split to the bias of the Communists and to their submission to foreign interference, and it upholds the old principle of the party in expressing opposition to anything calculated to bring on a new war.

Millerand Asserts Peace Treaty Must Be Wholly Fulfilled

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Jan. 1.—Receiving a body of citizens who had come to offer the season's greetings, President Millerand stated that it was an essential condition to the maintenance of peace that the peace treaty should be completely and sincerely carried out.

Duty and interest, he said, would oblige the nations to unite for the prevention of new conflicts. France was firmly resolved to do all in her power for the attainment of that end.

Count Bonin Longare, the Italian Ambassador and Doyen of the diplomatic body, said, in the course of a speech, that France had contributed powerfully to the world's reconstruction, and that the French Government might at any time rely upon the hearty support of the diplomatic body.

France Considers New Bill Providing Broader Local Government Plan

Administrative Regions May Be Created But National Authority Will Be Safeguarded If Measure Is Adopted

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 4.—A bill has been drafted, providing for the setting up in France of from 20 to 25 Administrative Regions, each comprising several Departments. The extent and administrative center of each of these regions will be fixed by decree, after consultation with the Councils General.

At the head of each region will be a Prefect, who will be in authority over the Prefects of Departments, and assisted by the principal Government officials.

Each region will have its own financial entity, and will be administered by a Regional Council, which will be conducted on the same lines as the existing Councils General in the Departments.

Departments with Prefects at their head will be retained, but the sub-division of arrondissements will be abolished.

The object of establishing these Administrative Regions is to relieve the congestion of the central Administration, to encourage local initiative, and, without in any way threatening national unity, to set in motion in the country strong movements of ideas and interests, calculated to ensure the most complete expansion of French national energy, as well in the domain of letters, science and art, as in the economic field.

The Bill was discussed at today's Cabinet meeting, and will be tabled in the Chamber when it assembles.

Mail Sent From Shanghai In Consignments Found To Have Been Looted En Route

Rifled Letters And Packages Discovered In New York Hotel Carried On Steamers That Sailed From Far East In Fall

Following the discovery in New York of an extensive robbery of foreign mails from the Orient it has been disclosed that mail matter despatched from Shanghai probably was included in one or more of the consignments that were looted.

Reports from New York are that mail consignments carried from the Far East last fall on the Korea Maru, steamer Colombia and the Tyndareus were among those that were tampered with. The Korea Maru sailed from Shanghai on October 3 last with mails for Canada, the United States and Europe. The vessel went to San Francisco by way of Japan ports and Honolulu and besides the mail from China the vessel also received a quantity of matter in Japan.

The Pacific Mail liner sailed from Shanghai on October 12 for San Francisco by way of Japan and Honolulu. It is not thought that any mail was forwarded from here on the Tyndareus, which is a Blue Funnel boat and did not sail out of this port in September or October.

OCCURRED IN HOTEL

The robbery was discovered by the management of the Hotel Albert in New York on November 26 when it was found that scores of letters and small packages consigned from the Orient to points in Great Britain and Europe had been rifled in one of the hotel rooms by a couple that had occupied the room overnight.

Postmaster E. H. Everett at the American Post Office said yesterday that he had received no direct information concerning the mail robbery, but added that he had heard that it had come to light. He said he had received no complaints of losses of matter forwarded from here.

It is not known whether the mail was rifled for jewelry and checks or for information regarding secret communications which may have been contained in some of the registered letters.

E. D. Fowler, manager of the hotel, which is at University place and Eleventh street, said the room where the rifled mail was found had been occupied on the night of November 25, by a man and woman who registered as Mr. and Mrs. J. Edwards, of Syracuse, N. J.

DISCOVERY OF LETTERS

They left the following morning, and a maid while cleaning the room came upon 200 letters and small parcels scattered in one corner of the room. She gathered up the stuff and left it in a closet, later notifying Fowler of her discovery.

Much of the mail was forwarded from Japan and some of the letters were untouched. In other cases, they had been torn up so hastily that the addresses were destroyed.

The theory that the motive of the robbery was to get hold of diplomatic information rather than jewelry or checks is encouraged by the fact that certain letters remained unopened.

There seems to have been a choice made in rifling the stolen mail. Many letters addressed to Japanese officials were found crumpled on the floor. Mail to important business men had been opened and the contents extracted and the packages were hastily torn open.

Ship Sinks In Whangpoo After Burning All Night

Steamer Albatross Mysteriously Takes Fire And Goes Down In Arsenal Reach

After burning all through the night the steamer Albatross, said to be under Polish registry, sank yesterday morning in the Arsenal reach of the river, a total loss. The cause of the fire is unknown.

The Albatross arrived here from Vladivostok and Tsingtau on December 29 under command of Captain Parloff, bringing a cargo of coal and miscellaneous freight. She was of about 450 tons.

The ship was anchored in midstream off the Arsenal and the outbreak occurred at about 10 o'clock Tuesday night. Officers and crew, after fighting the flames for some time, were forced to leave the ship and a report of the fire was turned in to the Harbor Master's office at about 2 a.m. yesterday. The Customs fire float was immediately despatched to the scene but by that time the doomed vessel was blazing from bow to stern and all efforts to check the blaze proved in vain.

Assistant Harbor Master Antoncich and, later, Harbor Master Myhre were both at the scene of the fire and aided in the fight but it was evident from the first that nothing could save the steamer. By 9 o'clock yesterday morning she was burned to the water's edge and shortly afterward went down. The wreck is said to be lying clear of the main traffic channel of the river.

The ship was in ballast, preparing for a trip to Haichow for salt. Messrs. L. V. Lang and Co. are agents for the Albatross.

DISLOYALTY COSTS IRELAND TOWN FINE OF £100

Military Adopts New Plan Of Punishment For Rebellious People

STRICKLAND ACTS ALONE

Civil Authorities Are Not Consulted As To His Reprisal Order

(Reuter's Service)

London, January 4.—The military authorities in Ireland have introduced a new method for punishing disloyalty, and have fined the town of Fermoy £100 for the tearing down of a proclamation.

The Daily Mail states that Gen. Strickland's sanction of the burning of property at Midleton took the Government in London by surprise, as the General acted under Martial Law, without having consulted the Chief Secretary or other civil authorities. The Cabinet, however (says the Daily Mail) support Gen. Strickland.

At the same time the Government is pursuing definite endeavors to secure peace in Ireland. The avenue to peace has broadened out lately, and negotiations are being continued.

The Sinn Fein leaders are preparing to hold a meeting of Dail Eireann, in accordance with Mr. Lloyd George's recent offer of safe conduct to all except a few members who can be specified.

All the Sinn Fein leaders in the United States have been recalled to Ireland, and negotiations are proceeding, through intermediaries, as regards the time and place of assembly.

Dublin, Jan. 4.—The Viceroy has issued a proclamation extending martial law to the counties of Clare, Waterford, Wexford and Kilkenny until further notice.

TALE OF SECRET CLAUSES IN PACT DENIED IN BRITAIN

Anglo-Japanese Treaty To Safeguard Welfare Of United States

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 4.—Reuter learns that a high British authority announces that the suggestion, emanating from the United States, that there are secret clauses in the Anglo-Japanese Treaty, is absolutely devoid of foundation.

Article Four of the Treaty effectively prevents in any contingency Great Britain taking the side of Japan against America—a point of view in which Japan fully concurs.

It is realised that the events arising out of the war and the establishment of the League of Nations necessitate a readjustment of the Alliance, but it is unlikely that any consideration of this readjustment will be possible until the Dominions have been consulted.

PARLIAMENT MEETS AGAIN; MAY MAKE SUN PRESIDENT

Political Cliques Hold Different Views On New Election

QUORUM SECURE

150 Solons Already In Canton; 80 More Are On Their Way

For the second time since its dissolution, the old Parliament will hold an extraordinary session in Canton beginning tomorrow. Its first function is to be the election of a President. Dr. Sun Yat-sen will probably be elected.

Already about 150 Parliamentarians have arrived in Canton. It is stated that about 80 more are on their way to the Southern capital. All the speakers are now in Canton and a secretariat for the Assemblies has already been organised.

The political cliques in Canton however are divided in their opinion on the reorganisation of the South-western Provinces. Beside the Parliamentarians, the remnants of the military government favor the election of Dr. Sun as the Generalissimo and not to organise a civil government until all the South-western provinces have definitely joined the cause.

The more conservative element advocates the continuation of the old system of the Administrative Council. The prominent advocates for this are Dr. Wu Ting-fang and his son, Dr. C. C. Wu, General Tang Chi-yao and General Chen Chiung-ming.

The Canton Government is sending delegates to the United States, England, France and Japan as unofficial diplomatic agents.

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, Jan. 5.—It is officially stated that so long as Chen Chiung-ming does not ally himself with Dr. Sun Yat-sen there is every prospect of the Central Government's recognising him as Tuchun.

Railway Surtax To Aid Famine Victims And Construct Lines

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Jan. 5.—The proceeds of the railway surtax will be utilised for the construction of the Chefoo-Weihsien and Tsangchow-Chenting railways with famine labor. These railways have been chosen because they are already surveyed and famine sufferers could be employed on them immediately, but the famine revenues will be utilised solely for manual labor.

Regarding the question whether direct monetary assistance would be preferable, the Government argues that it is reasonable to use departmental surtaxes for the improvement and extension of the services from which they are derived while using other famine funds for monetary aid.

Some Chinese opposition to this policy is being offered, but it is officially stated that it emanates from parties interested in railway construction.

Peking, January 5.—Replying to the Yokohama Specie Bank, the Chiao T'ung Pu says that the proposed loan from the Chinese banks for the purchase of railway material is secured by the revenues from the Pehan Railway, and therefore does not conflict with the security given the Bank prior to the revolution, namely the railway itself.

BIG POWERS URGE DELAY IN STEPS OF DISARMING

Britain And France Resist Demand Of Small Nations For Start Towards Reduction

BRAZILIAN PLAN IS BACKED

Government Monopoly Of Munitions Making And Publicity Steps Are Favored

BY EDWIN L. JAMES
(New York Times)

Geneva, Nov. 27 (by telephone to Paris).—The question of disarmament is provoking important debates in the secret sessions of Commission 6 of the League of Nations Assembly.

It has developed that the smaller nations, which form a majority of the commission are in favor of preparations being made immediately for a schedule of world disarmament. Italy, too, rather favors this idea.

Britain and France, however, have put a curb on the smaller powers, and advance the argument that in the present unsettled state of world politics—to say nothing of the fact that the United States, Germany and Russia are still outside the League—it is better to make haste slowly. Delegates of Britain and France will devote the next few days to bringing the small powers around to their way of thinking.

It is hoped that a satisfactory formula can be found by the adoption by the commission of a motion by Delegate Da Cunha of Brazil, proposing Government monopoly of arms and munitions and providing publicity for the disposal of the products of the Government arms factories.

WILL ACCEPT COMPROMISE

Britain and France still think this rather too speedy, but are willing to adopt it as a compromise with the views of the small nations. These two great powers are doubtless sincere. France, whose war wounds are not yet healed, will think not of disarming until she is satisfied that Germany is thoroughly disarmed and can be kept in that position.

France's experience with her allies during the past year has taught her that she must depend on herself to get what is due her from the treaty and she feels that military force is required for this. Britain emphasises that in the present unsettled state of world affairs the responsible nations must be in a position to deal with any eventualities that may arise.

Doubtless the fact that the United States is not disarmed influences the situation, but both France and England have in mind problems closer at hand. M. Bourgeois, head of the French delegation, lays down two conditions before general disarmament is possible: First, fulfillment of the treaty, and, second, assurance of an examination of the armament status of other nations, Germany in particular.

"Which is more dangerous," M. Bourgeois said, "to postpone armament reduction or to commit ourselves to imprudent and premature plans? If disarmament is not carried out by all at the same time there is very great danger for the nations which carry out their obligations loyally, and thus we increase rather than diminish the risk of new wars."

WANT TO RELEASE TROOPS

M. Usteri of Switzerland, as a delegate from a small nation, pointed out that his country had been neutral for four centuries yet was forced during the great war to maintain an army in order to preserve its neutrality. He said that Switzerland desired disarmament so as to utilise the men now with the colors for the development of her electric power.

Signor Chanza of Italy considered Bourgeois overcautious. He said that the world expected this Assembly to take steps toward disarmament.

H. A. L. Fisher of England talked about the instability of the world political situation and the consequent danger of disarmament at present. He thought it unwise to name a commission to draw up a disarmament schedule now, saying that the time had not come yet for that.

Senhor Da Cunha spoke this morning in support of his plan of a Government monopoly. He said that it would both lessen the danger of new wars and facilitate control of armaments.

Lange of Norway supported him and advised that the League obtain reports on the armament industry from all countries. Chanza and Welling, too, approved this suggestion. Fisher finally agreed to the suggestion that a subcommittee be asked to study practical means for the Assembly to express its opinion of the Government monopoly plan.

In secret session today Commission No. 5, which is charged with consideration of the new members to the League, had a stormy debate with regard to admitting ex-enemy States. In deference to the bitter opposition of France, the question of the admission of Germany has been set aside for the present. When the question of admitting Austria and Bulgaria, came up representative of Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovaka and Rumania showed vehement opposition.

The big powers had pretty well decided to let Austria and Bulgaria in, but when the neighbor ex-enemies of these two nations raised the same objection as France has raised against Germany the situation became different. The powers gave the three to understand that they ought to be satisfied with what they had and raise no objections. But the three didn't see it in that light, and so the commission's report about Austria and Bulgaria is not yet ready.

Of course any State can be admitted by a two-thirds vote, and Austria and Bulgaria could probably command that already on the floor of the Assembly, but to deal with the matter in that way would precipitate a dangerous debate, and that is not how this parliament of nations is being run.

Freedom from evidence of friction is difficult to obtain where forty-one nations are concerned, and that is why the Assembly is not holding any public sessions at present. Some of the League leaders are beginning to think that the secret method has its disadvantages, and it is possible that at the next meeting of the Assembly the present negation of open diplomacy may not be repeated.

FIRST LEAGUE ARMY

The first League of Nations army got its marching orders today. The British contingent will move from Danzig to Vilna and the French from Memel on December 1. Others of the force, which will be 1,800 strong, will arrive later. Over the whole a Frenchman, Colonel Chardigny, now on League duty at Vilna, is to be in command.

The force will include two companies of British troops with one machine gun section, two companies of French with a machine gun section, two companies of Spanish with a machine gun section and one Belgian company with a machine gun section. Contingents from Sweden, Norway and other countries will be added if and when they agree to join.

This League army is being sent to occupy the city and district of Vilna while the inhabitants are holding the plebiscite to decide whether they wish to belong to Poland or Lithuania. The plan is that whoever gets control of the city will ultimately pay the cost of the expeditionary force which is keeping order.

One thing that is not settled is what General Zeligouski will do about it. It was he who occupied Vilna and is occupying it still in spite of statements by the Polish Government that it is not supporting him with troops paid by the Polish Government.

Ignace Paderewski, when asked what chances the League army would have of getting into trouble, replied today that "there would be no difficulty with regular Polish troops." Colonel Chardigny has just been at Vilna and he may have had promises from Zeligouski as to good behavior. On the other hand, he may not. While he was trying to get to Vilna his train was held up for half a day because it ran into a battle between Lithuanians and two companies of Zeligouski's Poles, who outnumbered the whole League force.

The Lithuanians have just issued information to the effect that the Bolsheviki are about to occupy Vilna, but this, the Poles declare, is only propaganda put out because the Lithuanians know that the Poles are going to win the election and they wish to dissuade the League army from going there.

INVOLVE FIFTY-ONE NATIONS

Things certainly promise to be interesting for the first League army. If it gets into trouble it will involve ten nations directly and forty-one indirectly. Colonel Chardigny will fly the League of Nations flag. It is not decided yet when the plebiscite will take place.

Commission No. 6 this afternoon considered the application of the economic blockade in the case of nations violating their obligations to the League. The debate, like many others, was somewhat inconclusive in result.

Lord Robert Cecil emphasised the impossibility of the blockade being used as a thoroughly effective weapon while so many nations were not members of the League. There must also be, he argued, some central organisation to notify the Governments when an occasion had arisen for the use of the economic weapon. He urged that a permanent commission be appointed which with the Council should rule on such points.

A subcommittee was then appointed to prepare a report for the Assembly on which Lord Robert, representing South Africa, will sit with representatives of Sweden, Poland, Rumania and Switzerland.

'Humanising" Dogs In "Boarding School"

A school to inculcate human traits in dogs is being operated at Evanston, Ill., by Major Oscar Koeppel and Mrs. Koeppel. Their "pupils" are twenty-five German police dogs, brought by the Major from France. Most of them saw active service as dispatch bearers and some are wounded. The "school" is an old farmhouse, the lower floor of which Major and Mrs. Koeppel have transformed into an elaborate suite of "apartments" for the dogs. There are bedrooms where the dogs sleep in regular beds with pillows and coverlets, regular bathrooms, a music room, drawing room, library and nursery.

"It is remarkable the success we are having," said the Major. "The dogs display obvious pleasure at good music and will lie for hours in the music room listening to operatic selections on the phonograph. They like grand opera, but will not listen to jazz. They eat together at regular dinner tables with linen cloth and individual dishes and handle their food as delicately as a human. And their attitude toward each other is extremely polite."

Smiles from the Mixed Court

To bear a pair of candlesticks as to the manner born, that is to say gracefully and convincingly, commanding thereby a proper respect, is apparently a distinction from the ordinary. At any rate Tsang Dzung-tsai, who was carrying a brace of the zinc variety along the Singkiepang Road the day before yesterday, impressed a patroling C. P. C. as being extremely amateurish at the business.

When questioned Tsang displayed a good deal of ignorance on the subject of candlesticks in general and this pair in particular, so the C. P. C. took him to the station. It later developed that the sticks had been stolen from the home of Tsung Ping-sung while the Tsung family were momentarily absent from the house.

By the time he got into Court Tsang had a clearer recollection of how he came by the candlesticks. He was a hawker, he stated, and had been hawking in an alleyway near Tsung's home when a stranger approached him, handed him the things and asked if he would be good enough to pawn them and bring back the money. Being of an obliging nature he had consented to do so, and was trying to make good when the inquisitive policeman intervened.

Tsang will probably not be so carelessly obliging when he gets out again, which will be in four weeks.

WONG, ALSO, IS IMPOSED ON

Something similar happened to Wong Ng-yoong, but Wong was a bit more plausible in his explanation.

He was yodeling along the North Soochow Road with a huge sack of oats on his back when a policeman with an occult sort of hunch halted him and began an investigation which resulted in the discovery that the grain had been stolen from a boat in the Creek.

Wong's story was that he had been hired by a man to transport the bag to some unspecified spot, he to receive four coppers for the job, and that he was following his employer along the road when arrested—the employer disappearing when the policeman became active.

Wong only has to languish twenty-four hours.

Refuse To Return Arrested Students

Nantdo Court Rejects Request Of International Tribunal

The Nantao Criminal Court yesterday rejected the request of the International Settlement Mixed Court for extradition to the Settlement of the nine Fukienese students arrested by agents of the Fukien Tuchun in the Nantao after luring them, it is alleged, into Chinese territory. The Fukien Tuchun alleges that the students were implicated in the murder of two wealthy Foochow merchants during the anti-Japanese boycott movement as the result of the Foochow incident.

The request was denied on the ground that the Criminal Court in Nantao had not received any definite advice from the Fukien Tuchun, complainant in this case.

Oak Flooring WHY?

OAK FLOORING costs only a trifle more than a high-class carpet. A carpet, no matter how good the quality may be, wears out in a few years—an oak floor will last a life-time and longer.

OAK FLOORING is hygienic. It does not harbour dust and germs as does a carpet. It is easily cleaned and always looks new.

A WELL-POLISHED oak floor is infinitely superior in appearance to an ordinary carpet.

TO INSTALL oak flooring costs from Tls. 25 to Tls. 40. per fong (100 sq. ft.), according to the design selected.

WE SUPPLY OAK FOR FLOORING, WAINSCOTING, PANELLING, ETC., ETC., KILN-DRIED AND QUALITY GUARANTEED

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

Yellow River Bridge To Be Engineering Feat, Says Ministry

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Jan. 1.—The Ministry of Communications has handed to Reuter's Agency a lengthy statement of the facts in connection with the Yellow River Bridge. It is pointed out that the present structure, which is slightly over three kilometers in length, was only erected as a temporary expedient, for reasons of speed and financial considerations.

It was started in 1901, and took five years to complete. Its life was guaranteed for 15 years, but, thanks to the maintenance engineers of the railway, the foundation and body are still safe, although the 15-year guarantee will soon expire.

However such a light and weak bridge cannot be maintained for long, and the danger involved is very great.

In the spring of 1918 a Preparation Committee was established with a view to carrying out the preliminary work for the design of a permanent structure. The present Minister, when he took office, decided to have the construction of the new bridge completed within the shortest possible time. Through the efforts of the Committee, specifications for the new bridge have been drawn up, together with plans of the river and railway line.

Advertisements for tenders have been inserted in the leading newspapers in China and foreign countries. The prize to be awarded for the design has been increased, and the time limit extended, so as to enable the bridge experts to make a careful study of the problem. According to the present scheme, tenders will be opened on June 30 next.

The statement proceeds: "The bridge has important bearings in various aspects. The work is very difficult. Indeed it is not an exaggeration to say that the work will be one of the engineering feats of the world. After many years of careful research we are still afraid that we shall not be able to cope with such a task.

"During the last few years we have been unable for political reasons to provide the necessary funds. On the engineering side we have only made out a preliminary design of the work. As to the design itself, we have to consult all the experts, both at home and abroad. It is for this reason that a date has been fixed for submitting designs. As to the amount of money required in such a construction, no one can say definitely before the complete design has been decided. If there is any expert who is able to provide a better design with less expense, the Ministry of Communications would be only too glad to secure the help of such a man."

U. S. Boats Rotting In The James River

A few of the hundreds of wooden ships built by the United States Shipping Board during the war which are being permitted to rot in the rivers of the country. This photograph was made from an army airplane and shows some of the vessels tied up in the James River, Va. During the war the boats were used for transporting supplies to Europe. After the armistice they were apparently of no use, there being no bids made for their purchase and their use to the Government having passed. Their waste entails a loss of millions to the Government.

Large Grants Approved For Famine Relief Work

The allocation of 700 tons of grain in Chihli province was agreed to at a General Committee meeting of the Chinese Foreign Famine Relief Committee held Tuesday night. The grain goes to South Sien-Hsien, Tsangchow, Chichow, Hokienfu and Ningpo, and will be distributed by organised committees in those places, working with the Tientsin International Famine Relief Committee.

"A further sum of $50,000.00 was voted to purchase grain in Manchuria, through the Tientsin Committee," the report of the meeting states, "and $30,000.00 of this is to go to the Honan Famine Relief Committee, Kaifeng, where Bishop White is now in charge of the field distribution.

"$3,000,00 was voted for the work of saving infants in Honan, with Chengchow as a center.

"$2,000.00 was granted to St. Joseph's Hospital and Orphanage, Shanghai where they now have famine refugees—principally boys—under their care.

AGAINST ROAD BUILDING

"It was agreed that we support the Tientsin Famine Relief Committee in its appeal to the President of China urging that money be not at present voted to road and railway building where conditions were such that there would be very material leakage of funds and when the state of the frozen ground made such work extremely costly if indeed practicable at all. We urge that food to keep the people alive over the winter is the only need now. In the spring, road and railway work would be practicable.

"Our delegates, now visiting the famine-areas to consult with the famine Committees, send reports by the way, and we hope to have their full report by next week when our work of an equitable distribution of our funds will be made easier."

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, January 5.—Complying with the request from the International Famine Relief Association, the Cabinet has instructed the Provinces to afford the necessary protection to foreign helpers in the outlying districts.

Mixed Court Jottings

Koo Tsung-tshing, proprietor of a game shop at C-138 Woosung Road, was fined $25 in the Mixed Court yesterday for violation of the Municipal regulation prohibiting the sale of hen pheasants. Witnesses from the Sanitary Department told of discovering the birds in the shop and said that the shopkeeper was ordered by them to send the seizure to the King's Daughters' Society. Later it was found that only 13 of the pheasants had been sent and on inquiry at the shop the other 12 were produced. The defendant was fined on a basis of the market price of cock pheasants, which he, however, protested were selling for but 50 cents each.

A boy formerly employed by Mr. V. Read was sentenced to three months' imprisonment yesterday for misappropriating money given to him for the payment of bills.

A shroff of the China Garage Co. appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday on the charge of embezzling funds collected. The case was remanded for one week.

Another attempted bank fraud came to the notice of the Court yesterday when a Chinese named Sz Kyung-foo was charged. It is alleged that he forged a letter, purporting to come from the Toh Hoo Bank, Hankow Road, and thereby secured a pass book belonging to one of the bank's clients. He presented the book and tried to withdraw Tls. 156 from the deposit, but the bank employes suspected a forgery and had him arrested. The case was remanded.

BASEBALL LEADS FOOTBALL IN APPEAL TO AMERICANS SAYS PHILOSOPHER IN "NATION"

Diamond Game True Entertainment Of Masses In United States While Devotees Of Gridiron Sport Are College Men And Women

(The following article, entitled "Baseball and Football" is reproducted from the New York Nation. We have only one quarrel with the writer. He insists that the impressions were gained by a philosopher. The ordinary spectator, we would suggest, will feel the same way.)

A Philosopher who attended a game of the World Series without any elemental preference for either the Indians or the Robins, and also witnessed the Harvard-Yale game at New Haven with his blood unstirred by any partialities for Yale or Harvard whatsoever, and on both occasions devoted the right kind or reflection to the two sports, must easily have come to some conclusions as to why baseball is the true entertainment of the American masses, and football that of the colleges and universities.

BASEBALL SPEEDIER

At first glance these facts might seem strange to our philosopher, who could not help realising how much the more beautiful of the two, on the whole, baseball is—more light, more swift, more plastic. The very season helps its beauty, the bright, hard sun and sky, the vivid heat, the dry, clear atmosphere of the American summer. Instead of going clad in harness and mail, as in football, and lumbering a little in their gaits, baseball players seem always on their toes, lithe and incomparably agile. The ball flashes across the field with a velocity no football can attain, and back and forth with the rush of meteors. Base-runners cover the ground as no half-back ever manages to do through the finest cloud, behind the most competent interferences. Flying balls and flying runners weave over the diamond a brilliant net of interest, as if the stars should flash widely about in the dark for an hour or so. Baseball has none of football's heavy piling up of hundredweights of humanity in masses from which some bystander must disentangle the members. In baseball all is in the open, every player is obviously an individual, every play stands sharply by itself. The game, once certain intricacies of rules and customs have been mastered, is as lucid as noon.

MORE TO BE WATCHED

In football there is more to be watched. Individual playing amounts to less, or at least has less opportunity to attract attention. The punter means less to his team than the pitcher to his. The stupendous personal triumph won by a player who can take the ball on the kick-off and run with it to a touchdown is a sign how rare a deed he has accomplished. And even in his case the credit lies largely with his team. What essentially matters in football is the nice articulation of human beings into a corporation in which each plays his most strenuous part with the neatness and delicacy of wheel or cog or ratchet or piston. Only an expert can ever know how hard it is, or what painful repetition is necessary, to make a machine out of eleven men. Only a person considerably expert, moreover, can perceive the nicer points of generalship displayed by the player who conducts a football game. He is a driver with ten steeds who must set his own shoulder to the wheel as constantly as they; he is an organist who must touch many keys and pull many stops, his mind full of his repertoire of tricks and yet able at any moment to improvise new ones; he must spare his own men and yet send their weight against men in the opposing line who show signs of weakness; he must diagnose the play of his opponents no matter how much they may try to conceal all their symptoms. Nor does all this responsibility lie with the quarterback, or whoever runs the game. The other players have more to do than follow instructions implicitly. Each of them, too, must diagnose the coming play; each of them must sway with the rhythm of the contest, original and yet always adaptable in a dozen directions, heated with the rush of the conflict and yet cool with the discipline of the rules.

ONLY FOR COLLEGES

We here speak, of course, of perfect conditions on perfect teams; but the matter is everywhere essentially the same, so far as the audience is concerned. From that point of view, baseball, for all the marvelous skill required to play it, and for all its technical brilliance and finish, is to football as vaudeville or melodrama to higher comedy. The baseball fan, like the onlooker at melodrama or vaudeville, watches what at the moment is before his eye, delighted or suited with that, and concerned only secondarily with the larger drift of the game, for the reason that there is less of it to consider. But the spectator at a football match has a different function. Like the players on the field he too sways with the rhythm of the organised cheering; like them, too, he fixes his attention not upon the brilliance of the individual moment or episode, but upon the coherence and solidarity of an entire undertaking. There has to be, therefore, a greater community of sentiment among the watchers at such a game than among the heterogeneous crowds who cheer the professional players of baseball. And such a community in America only the colleges and universities can furnish.

Football Tickets Are Being Sold For Famine Fund

Lest there be any misunderstanding about the tickets being sold for the American football game between Shanghai and the U.S.S. New Orleans at the Race Course on Saturday afternoon, let it be known that the money will go to the Women's Famine Relief Society.

Tickets are not required for admission to the game and as the Race Course is a public recreation ground, those who do not purchase tickets can not be kept out. In other words, the American footballers are running sort of a tag day in connection with the game.

The Women's Famine Relief Society is an organisation of Shanghai ladies who are devoting time and energy to intensive relief work. The organisation sends money, clothing and food to famine sufferers through the agencies most intimate with the demands caused by the drought—Catholic priests and Protestant missionaries.

Thus the game deserves support.

The civilians held two good practice sessions yesterday and the New Orleans team is working every afternoon at the Foochow Road Drill Hall.

There will be no tiffin practice today. But the boys are ordered out at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Foochow Road armory.

St. John's University	1.000
Nanyang University	.750
Fuhtan University	.750
Soochow University	.500
Nanking University	.400
Shanghai College	.200
Government Teachers College	.000

If all the games played between St. John's and Nanyang during this season are considered, the standing is as follows:

St. John's University	1.000
(did not play T.T.C. or Fuhtan)
Nanyang University	.833
(did not play Nanking or G.T.C.)
Fuhtan University	.750
(did not play St. John's & S'hai.)
Soochow University	.500
(played all the schools)
Nanking University	.400
(did not play Nanyang)
Shanghai College	.200
(did not play Fuhtan)
Government Teachers Col.	.000
(did not play Nanyang & St. John's)

Fuhtan has sent in a request to the football committee to arrange a game between St. John's and Fuhtan, the latter claiming that they are entitled to challenge the winners since St. John's has not played them.

It should, however, be pointed out that Fuhtan has only won over two of the weakest institutions and over one school which has been defeated by both Nanyang and St. John's. Fuhtan defeated this institution by 1-0 and lost to Nanyang by 3-0. The committee considered the matter and its decision is that Fuhtan is not justified in challenging the declared winner of the championship, and is not therefore willing to arrange for a game between Fuhtan and St. John's.

On the whole the football season for 1920 has been characterised by a keen interest. The weather was quite favorable only one game being cancelled because of rain, and one game postponed. Three of the matches were played on sloppy fields but the rest of the games were played under favorable conditions. More matches were played this year than in any previous season in the history of the Association.

(Signed) Committee: E. Kelhofer, Chairman, R. D. Smart, D. Roberts.

The attack was the result of a quarrel prompted by divorce proceedings filed by Mrs. Vaughn. The case was scheduled for hearing yesterday, but a reconciliation had been effected and Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn were preparing to move to Chicago.

SELECTION OF CHAMPIONSHIP ELEVEN FOR EASTERN COAST IS REAL PROBLEM THIS YEAR

Penn State, Princeton, Pittsburg, Boston College And Harvard Have Great Records; Army Scored 314 Points; Boston College Only Undefeated Team

Selecting the championship football eleven of the Eastern Coast is more complicated than usual this year, newspapers arriving from the Unted States yesterday adding more difficulty by including of late-season scores.

In past years it has frequently been the case that one varsity team, with a remarkable record, stood out so prominently that it was the choice for titular honors among a large majority of the gridiron experts. Such a situation does not exist this year.

Six college or university elevens passed through the season without defeat, but in the case of five of these teams the record was marred by one or more tie games. Boston College is the only one which has an absolutely clean slate.

Harvard, Princeton, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania State and Stevens all closed their schedule undefeated, but the tie contest between Princeton and Harvard left the question of supremacy unsolved. Penn State played tie games with Pittsburg and Lehigh; Pittsburg was tied by Syracuse and Penn State, while Middlebury held Stevens to a scoreless tie.

A second group, but thinly separated from the first division, would naturally include Dartmouth, Syracuse, Navy, Army, Brown, Holy Cross, Lehigh, Williams and Yale.

An analysis of the records of the various college elevens of the East develops some interesting and confusing data.

The West Point cadet team, although defeated by the Navy and Notre Dame, managed to roll up an aggregating score of 314 points, which, so far as scoring is concerned, gives the Army first place in the section totals.

Williams, with Benny Boynton the star individual scorer of the East, is next in line with 312 points, although defeated in three out of the eight games played. Penn State and Cornell are third and fourth, respectively, with 259 and 231.

The records of the larger institutions of the East follow:

College—	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	Oppo. score
Harvard	8	0	1	208	28
Boston College	7	0	.	151	16
Princeton	6	0	1	144	23

Peskey Sprott Stars When California Beats Ohio State

(Special Cable)

Pasadena, Jan. 2 (delayed).—Brick Muller and Berkey, the great ends, and left halfback Peskey Sprott of the University of California eleven were the shining lights in the 28-0 victory over Ohio State University here yesterday in the intersectional game held in connection with the annual Tournament of Roses.

Berkey first jumped into the limelight in the opening period when he recovered an Ohio State fumble. Quarterback Erb then directed the versatile attack which led to a touchdown early in the game, Sprott carrying the ball for the first six points.

In the second period, Muller—six feet tall and speedy as they make 'em—took a long forward pass from Morrison, the fling netting California a gain of 50 yards. Morrison then took the ball over. Sprott scored the third touchdown in the same period.

On the third play in the final quarter, Sprott, playing his last inter-collegiate game, circled left end for a 60 yard run, bringing the ball to the Ohio ten-yard line. In two line bucks Deeds had scored.

See Renewed Hope Of American Leadership

Washington Expects Our Voice In World Affairs To Be Heard Again With Effect

Washington, November 26.—Lenin and his assistants at Moscow, in the opinion of the best informed students of foreign affairs here, have now entered upon a new phase of high-geared Soviet activity in which they are launching energetic offensives along all fronts, political and psychologic, and pushing them with every means available.

In this movement they are trying to appeal to foreign sentiment and imagination through impressions they have sought to make upon recent visitors, and at the same time are endeavoring to appeal to international capitalism and engage the support particularly of American investors and business men. They are seeking to assure the outside world that Soviet Russia is guided by honest efforts to establish peaceful and economic relations, but at the same time they have been making most far-reaching arrangements with the Turkish nationalists led by Mustapha Kemel Pasha, by concentrating armies on the Polish front and by preparing plans, together with the Communist Radicals in the United States, for organising committees of unemployment and trade Soviets here and making use of the state of unemployment into which this country has entered in efforts to incite revolutionary activities.

The trump card that Moscow is trying to play in these new moves in the game for the purpose of provoking what it denominates the "greed" of international capitalists, is undoubtedly the agreement alleged to have been made with Washington D. Vanderlip of California. The report that an extensive concession involving some 400,000 square miles of Siberian territory had been granted to him by the Soviet regime has now been followed by stories of supposed contracts between Vanderlip and Moscow for the sale to the latter of steamers, locomotives, cars, rails and goods.

BUSINESS MEN UNIMPRESSED

The sums involved and the size of this alleged contract are regarded as disclosing the true character of the deal. The mere transportation of the goods would call for the use of millions of tons of ocean bottoms, to say nothing of port and railway transportation facilities within Russia which that country does not possess. Moreover, all the present gold resources which the Soviets could raise would meet only a small part of the expenses that would be involved in a contract of such magnitude.

As a matter of fact, according to information brought to Washington through reliable channels, instead of making a real impression on serious business and financial interests cognizant of just what would be involved in such an undertaking, the figures announced have provoked irony and smiles. It is understood here that serious American opinion has not been influenced in the least by the Vanderlip concessions. The inclination in well-informed circles in Washington is to consider them as a continuation of the bluffs and soap bubbles with which the Soviet leaders, in so many instances, have endeavored to feed European opinion.

American business opinion is expected to pay no serious attention to the Vanderlip concessions just as the new Administration in Washington, as it is now definitely learned, will have very little to change in the American Government's present Russian policy of complete repudiation of any contempt for any sympathy with Bolshevist principles. The belief amounts to a conviction in informed Washington circles that the main purpose of the Soviets in dealing with Vanderlip was not economic but political, so far as Moscow was concerned. It appears from the Soviet press that the deal was not final but dependent actually upon recognition of the Soviet Government by the United States. The ultimate purpose of Lenin is being described now as a clumsy attempt to induce capitalists here to exercise their influence on the American Government, and under promise of unheard of profits and compensations to extort from Washington favorable political action toward the Soviet plans.

THE EASTERN MANEUVERS

Far more dangerous are the developments that have come out in connection with the agreement understood to have been entered into by the Russian Soviets with the Turkish Nationalist forces under Mustapha Kemal Pasha to set Islam free. These plans, as reported from Constantinople on Thursday, have in view the assurance of territorial integrity for Turkey, the re-establishment of Turkish control in Syria and Arabia and the liberation of Moslem countries such as India, Algeria, Egypt, Morocco and Tunisia from the "foreign yoke." The plan is reported as being to provide for financial and material aid to Turkey, and continued hostilities against the Entente.

On information so far at hand it is difficult to judge the authenticity of these reports. But the spirit of the plan is significant and there is no doubt in Washington as to the essential foundation of Soviet-Kemelist co-operation, nor of the motives which induce Soviet Moscow to engage the support of the Turkish Nationalists in its destructive purposes. One fundamental reason is found in the feeling of aroused nationalism and general dissatisfaction which the proposad settlement of the Near Eastern problem as outlined in the treaty of Sevres is encountering among the population of Asia Minor and the Levant.

It is considered only natural that the plan for the dismemberment of Turkey and the end of what used to be the old Ottoman Empire does not meet with the interests, the wishes and aspirations of former Turkish imperalists, who would apply German political philosophy and methods to continue the life of the Empire of the Sultan. The situation would not be especially dangerous if the world had to reckon only with the intrigues of a small group of former Ottoman bureaucrats and officers.

FEAR OF EXPLOITATION

It is now realised, however, that so far as the Near East is concerned the manner in which European administration has been installed in different parts of the former Turkish Empire has aroused deep suspicion and animosity among the populations, both Turkish and Arabs. Direct impressions gained by these populations from the Greek advance, from events in Syria, from the administration and occupation of Constantinople, and contact with the advancing armed forces and imposed authorities have been aggravated by the publication of main features of the tripartite treaties.

The idea has been spread throughout the Near East that the spirit of beneficial and impartial administration, through mandates conceived in the spirit of justice, the open door and equal opportunities, has been set aside, and that the aspirations which prevailed in the early part of the war and led to the famous Sykes-Picout agreement, practically dividing Turkey between England and France by establishing spheres of influence and substantiated later by agreement with Italy, has returned. Dreams of self-determination and independence of nationalities are waning with this reappearance of the specter of an era of spheres of influence and foreign political and economic predominance.

Deeply disappointed in the hope of realising their aspirations under European control and guidance, with the United States out of active participation in League and Treaty affairs because of obvious even if but temporary reasons, it is considered easy to understand how these nationalities of the Near East have fallen an easy prey to the promises of the present Bolshevist masters of Moscow, who are only too glad to use for their ultimate game of destroying so-called capitalistic government in England and France any revolutionary material upon which they can lay their hands.

MILITARISM RENEWED

To bruised nationalities the appeal of Bolshevism under the guise of protector and sponsor of national rights which Lenin is assuming has come to be a factor of considerable international importance in the opinion of close observers in Washington. Its effect in the Russo-Polish situation has been demonstrated. Further accomplishments in the Near East are believed to be at hand. It is also becoming an element of considerable weight in Central Europe, especially in the latest aspect of Hungarian politics. The sensational revelations disclosing the conspiracies of the present dictatorship of Hungary have stirred deep interest here.

The most important and dangerous of these appears to be the creation of a Hungarian army with the purpose of seizing, if circumstances will allow, those provinces of the former Hungarian kingdom which were disannexed by the treaty of St. Germain and incorporated into the newly formed States of Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia. It is not known here that Czecho-Slovakia in particular is passing through an acute internal crisis, and that radicalism and communism are pulsing high in that newly formed republic. While it is generally expected that under the sane leadership of President Masaryk the Czecho-Slovaks will be able to live through the crisis and settle down to order and prosperity, the military conspiracies of Hungary have opened prospects of immense danger.

If Slovakia, as alleged in the recent revelations, were to be occupied by Hungarian soldatesca on the assumption that the people there turn to practices too radical or communistic, the inevitable consequence might be that the sentiment of the republic would turn to communistic Russia for the protection of their injured rights of self-determination.

In Washington opinion this is an illuminating and convincing instance of the capital which Lenin and militant Bolshevism is making out of the deviation of European politics from the wise and unselfish spirit with which the United States Government has sought to imbue the peace settlements and which, at present, unhappily for the world in general, seems to have been eliminated. The belief is growing that events in Europe and Asia are moving with great rapidity toward a situation from which a catastrophe can only be averted by a general revision of purposes and procedures.

AMERICA'S ADVICE WANTED

A firm and far-sighted policy, based on well-established definitions, is believed in Washington to be imperatively demanded by present circumstances and it is felt here that it will be America's destiny to play again a great role in approaching settlements. The American Government is directly concerned and interested, politically and economically, in the settlement of the question of securing peace and stability. President-elect Harding's speech at Ancon, containing expressions of the principles that illuminated American policy at the close of the war, has given renewed hope to friends of peace in international circles that the incoming Administration will not fail, in its own way, to exercise the moral authority and strength which the United States possesses for procuring such settlements as will contribute toward the security of the civilised world. The latest note of Secretary Colby regarding the nature of mandates is not looked upon here as an expression of personal or partisan views, but as breathing Americanism in its best sense and seeking again to sound a warning voice from the United States respecting principles on which there should be no dissent. The importance of the new note is expected to reach far beyond the particular issue of disposing of oil wells and other resources.

This note, and President-elect Harding's speech in Panama, are regarded as forerunners of a new period in international affairs in which the United States, forced by circumstances, will again lift its voice with wisdom and authority. The feeling here is strong in that in no other matter can this voice prove more helpful than in seeking to obtain such conditions in Europe that the destructive chaos of Bolshevism cannot exploit the suspicions and spite of bruised nationalist feelings, in which case it is believed that, facing peoples who have become satisfied and hopeful, the Russian communistic experiment will quickly crumble before the common sense and hatred of the Russian people as a whole.

"Began to think she would never get well."

Our Portrait is of Miss FLORRIE ORGAN, of 100, Clark Street, Ladywood, Birmingham, England, whose father writes:

"My daughter Florrie was suffering with a very bad head covered with Sores and Scabs, and in fact her mother was afraid to comb her hair. She had been under several doctors, but all to no purpose, so I began to think she would never get well again and lose all her hair. As your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' cured me of Glandular Swellings in the Neck some years ago, and so averted my having to undergo an operation, I decided to give 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' a fair trial in the case of my daughter, and I am pleased to say it effected a wonderful cure in just over a fortnight."

SUFFERERS from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Eczema, Piles, Boils, Sores, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Rheumatism, Gout should realise that lotions and ointments can but give temporary relief; to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter the root cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes and expels the impurities; that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take, and free from injurious ingredients.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEFFA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. PRELER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a safe and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

"RIGHT ROYAL"

John Masefield Has Written The Finest Poetic Account Of A Horse Race In The Language

John Masefield now has to his credit the two finest sporting poems in the language, "Reynard the Fox" and "Right Royal." Though not so splendid a poetic performance as the fox-hunting narrative with which Masefield signalised the year 1919 in English verse, "Right Royal" is, nevertheless, to horse-racing what "Reynard" is to cross-country hunting, the most brilliant description of it ever produced by a poet.

The two poems are companion pieces, similar in style, parallel in plan, only in the one case is the thrill of the pursuit of the fox, the absorption in the desperation the gameness and the stratagems of the hunted animal, and in the other the rush of the race, the breathless interest in the changing fortunes of Right Royal and his rider on the hazards of Compton Course. In one the fox is the protagonist in the drama, in the other the horse. In either case the subject was chosen for the same reason, that nothing like fox-hunting or horse-racing brings together and sets on common ground all classes of society.

However, Masefield has done less with his racing types than he did with the followers of the hunt. The pictures of the crowd at Compton Course are neither so numerous nor so brilliantly done as those of that company that met at the Cock and Pye for the run over the March fields. But let us not impute this to Masefield for failure. Let us remember how difficult it must be, even for Masefield, to produce a second set of drawings of English types so fine as that in "Reynard," the best and soundest in English verse since Chaucer posed his pilgrims at the Tabard Inn. One can hardly be expected to approach Chaucer twice in two consecutive years.

Nevertheless, these are vivid and true—the hoi polloi in brakes and traps, hooting and cheering, and "peppering folk from tin peashooters," the "medical students smart as paint," the bookie in his three-inch checks, the racing baronet in his car.

"Young Sir Eustace, biting his tip,
Pressing his chin with his finger tip,
Nerves on edge, as he could not choose,
From thought of the bets he stood to lose,
"the costermongers smart as sparrows," the "bucks from city and flash young bloods with vests 'cut saucy' to show their studs," and,
Olive-skinned French with clipped mustaches,
Almond-eyed like Paris Apaches,
Rosy French with their faces shining
From joy of living and love of dining.
Silent Spaniards, merry Italians,
Nobles, commoners, saints, rapscallions;
Russians tense with the quest of truth
That maddens manhood and saddens youth;
Learned Norwegians hale and limber,
Brown from the barques new in with timber.
Oregon men of six feet seven
With backs from Atlas and hearts from Heaven.
Orleans creoles, ready for duels,
Their delicate ears with scarlet jewels,
Green silk handkerchiefs 'round their throats,
In from sea with the cotton boats.
Portuguese and Brazilianos
Men from the mountains, men from the Llanos,
Men from the Pampas, men from the Sierras
Men from the mines of the Cordilleras,
Men from the flats of the tropic mud
Where the butterfly glints his mail with blood;
Men from the pass where day by day
The sun's heat scales the rocks away;
Men from the hills where night by night
The sheep bells give the heart delight;
Indians, Lascars and Bengalese
Greeks from the mainland, Greeks from the seas;
All kinds of bodies, all kinds of faces,
All were coming to see the races,
Coming to see Sir Lopez run
And watch the English having their fun.

But the race is the thing. This was an old-country steeplechase, twice around Compton Course, about four and a quarter miles of grass and ploughland, with twenty-nine jumps—fence, thorn and water—and with forty starters. Charles Cothill, who had nursed back to confidence and power a mishandled racer, had, on the strength of a dream and Right Royal's showing of spirit, done a foolish thing which he confesses before the race to her whose hopes and happiness as well as his own he had thus risked entire on the hazards of a perilous course and an ill-reputed horse:

And being flooded with my vision thus,
Certain of winning, puffed and glorious,
Walking upon this earth top like a king,
My judgment went. I did a foolish thing;
I backed myself to win with all I had.

That added to the English Chaser's Cup a stake worth while. Charles Cothill rode to save all he had and not to lose the golden Lady Em. And Right Royal fell at the third jump. Such, then, was the situation that lay like lead on Charles Cothill's heart as bruised and humbled he remounted his shaken racer and saw Sir Lopez, the favorite, and all the other cracks flying down the great green street of the Course thirty lengths away.

I would not for the world reveal here the outcome of the race, or how it was won and lost. I want to leave that for the pleasure of the reader, for from here on the poet tells a magnificent story of a magnificent struggle, vivid, true and beautiful, the response of horse to man and man to horse, and of both to the mass exaltation that comes over a great crowd hanging on a desperate battle, the chances and escapes of so long and so dangerous a course, the hopes, the challenges, the swift shifting of these splendid horses giving their last atom of strength and spirit to their masters' glory. And all this so judged and so true in detail and circumstance that I can imagine a race track man who never read a poem before hanging delighted on the words of this. LIFE OF DISRAELI

Whatever view one takes of the political philosophy of Benjamin Disraeli, there can be no question that his career is one of the most romantic in the annals of England. By his native ability he rose from comparative obscurity to the highest position under the Crown. As leader of the Tory party he twice held the office of Prime Minister; as the British plenipotentiary he was the dominating figure in the Congress of Berlin, where Bismarck, who presided, expressed the general opinion in these words: "Der Alte Jude, das ist der Mann." Despite the handicap of Jewish birth, he became a social favorite in the proudest aristocracy in the world. Yet aside from his prodigious political labors he found time to write a number of novels which would have attracted attention if he had been unknown politically.

The present volumes, the fifth and sixth, complete this definitive "Life of Benjamin Disraeli," which was begun by Monypenny and continued after his death by George Earle Buckle. These two volumes carry the narrative from Disraeli's first accession to the premiership in 1868 to his death in 1881. Disraeli was a voluminous letter-writer, and his biographer has wisely told the story largely in Disraeli's own words. His intimate letters to his colleagues, to Queen Victoria and to Lady Chesterfield and Lady Bradford reveal the man as no narrative by another could do.

Disraeli's reputation as a statesman must rest mainly upon his foreign policy, and more specifically upon his handing of the Eastern question. To secure Britain's communications with India he checkmated Russia at Constantinople and in Afghanistan and secured for England the control of the Suez canal. His action in sending the fleet to Constantinople and in overthrowing the treaty of San Stefano in the Berlin Congress postponed the liquidation of Turkey in Europe for forty years; but there is strong ground for the belief that the liquidation might have been accomplished at less cost in 1878 than in 1918. Subsequent history has shown that Russia was not so great a menace to England in the East as Germany afterward became.

Disraeli was an imperialist and was inclined to justify the means he employed by the ends he had in view. His rival, Gladstone was a humanitarian and sympathised with the oppressed peoples under the heel of the Turk. The Disraelian theory may be summed up in the following quotation from a letter from Queen Victoria to her favorite minister: "This mawkish sentimentality for people who hardly deserve the name of real Christians, as if they were more God's creatures and our fellow creatures than every other nation abroad, and forgetting the great interests of this great country—is really incomprehensible." And the biographer sums up Disraeli's policy in these words: "He took the common-sense view that in politics it is generally a question merely of the more expedient course: and that the prime duty of a British statesman is to regard British honor and promote British welfare."

Archbishop Tait wrote of Disraeli's last novel:

"I have finished 'Endymion' with a painful feeling that the writer considers all political life as mere play and gambling."

Gladstone ousted Disraeli, then Earl of Beaconsfield, from power for the last time in 1880. Beaconsfield lived only a year longer, in which time he wrote "Endymion." The old Tory statesman felt the impending social change against which he had fought so sturdily for so many years. In a letter to Lady Chesterfield he wrote: "It is a reolutionary age, and the chances are that even you and I may live to see the final extinction of the great London season, which was the wonder and admiration of our youth." (New York; The Macmillan Company).

LAND OF THE GOBLIN

Tales Of Wonder And Magic. By Katharine Pyle. Little, Brown and Co.

Did you ever hear of a hoblin? Well, neither had the goblins who decided to attack the house of Mighty-Mouth and destroy him. They gathered about in the dark and were all ready to burst in when Mighty-Mouth awoke to his danger. But he was not to be outdone by any mere goblins. He had proclaimed already that he was a hoblin, and as none of the goblins knew what that was he had them all guessing. Rousing his wife, he told her what she was to say, and then sent her to light a fire and start to cook supper. Soon after Mighty-Mouth followed her.

"How is this?" he cried in a loud voice, "where are the goblins I brought home yesterday and told you to cook for me?"

His wife pretended to be frightened at his tone. "Oh, I beg you will not be angry," she shouted, "but when the children came home today they took the three goblins and had them eaten before I could stop them." Mighty-Mouth began to stamp and roar about. He declared if he could not have goblins for supper he would eat nothing. But the goblins did not wait to hear him out. A man whose children ate goblins instead of sweetmeats was too fierce for them.

This tale is from India; in the collection are others from all over the world, Irish, Georgian, Japanese, Swedish, American Indian and Czech, all very well told and many of them quite new to this part of the world, and underlying most of them is that curious resemblance of plot which runs through the folk lore of all nations. Most of the stories are of the Jack the Giant Killer type and should not be used on very young children. They are recommended for boys and girls of 10 to 15; at this age they should be harmless, and their diverse origin and novelty of interest will make them interesting at the lesser of these ages if not later. The illustrations, by the author, are fairly good, and altogether the book will make an attractive gift.

FOR YOUNG ACTORS

The Little Playbook. By Katherine Lord. Duffield and Co.

"The Little Playbook," by Katherine Lord, contains six plays for children, all of distinct literary merit and imbued with the poetry and faptasy of childhood, recalling to grownups the ever welling truths and tender beauty that children know before they become wise in this world's conceits. To read them is to be transported to the fairyland of the imperishable.

The book is timely, too. The "Minister's Dream" is a Thanksgiving play, set in the early New England of the Puritans, with historic characters, using the quaint language of the day.

Similarly, "The Day Will Shakespeare Went to Kenilworth" is done in the diction prevailing in Good Queen Bess's reign. In this play, it is to see the Queen that the Bard as a lad of eleven goes to Kenilworth with a group of actor folk, on the way capturing Robin Goodfellow, thereby and thenceforth securing the gifts of all the fairies. The scenes with the boy's parents and the conception of his character are beautiful.

In addition to two outdoor plays there are two for Yuletide: The one, in which the scene is modern, bringing a "real" Christmas to a family of poor children; and the other, which is laid in legendary Norway, bestowing upon the small heroine the realisation of the ideal wish, which was her own perfect wish the vision of the Rose that Blooms on Christmas eve.

Suggestions for music comprise a valuable bibliography of old carols, folk songs, morris performances and other dance music.

THE LONDON MUFFIN MAN

London Days: A Book Of Reminiscences. By Arthur Warren. Boston: Little, Brown and Co.

Here in this delightful volume is the London that existed as one century closed and another dawned upon it—the London that had withstood gloriously all the harm the air could do it up to that time but was soon to know a new aerial enemy in the bombs that put a full stop to so many of its old activities—an explosive period written after so many Victorian scenes and celebrities. Gone, indeed, is the London of Gladstone and the muffin man; of Patti and the two horse bus; of Whistler and the shiny silk hats gleaming in the murky fog like stray sunbeams worn for halos; the London of Henry Irving and of such admirable special correspondents as Smalley and Warren himself.

With powers of keen observation and a skilful knack of characterisation, the author, taking old London town as a frame, sets within it a series of portraits such as those suggested above, and many others. Some of the chapters are just bits of clever work, but others rise to the height and dignity of history. Such, for example, is the masterly though brief description of Lord Kelvin as a man, and of his work as the "greatest master of natural science in the nineteenth century." It could not be better done. And then, by way of contrast, there is the sombre but splendid picture of the burial of Robert Browning in Poet's Corner, while the great bell of the Abbey tolled, the organ pealed its magic music through the dim aisles of the national Walhalla, and those who really made Britain great, dead and alive, played their part as mourners.

We could spare the pitiful and pathetic sketches of Parnell and Boulanger, for more of that; but it all goes to make up the record, which is like that of highly sensitive photographic plate whose lights and depths are brought out by the artistry of a skilful wood engraver.

FULL-BLOODED PEOPLE

Why Other People Like Them

We can all call to mind men and women who give such a sense of vitality and strength that they are bound to get on. A woman of this type—full-blooded, plump and bright eyed—always has lots of friends. A man of the same kind always gets his own way.

The reason is that there is a natural and wholesome tendency in all of us to appreciate health and healthy people, those with vigorous red blood in their veins, instead of thin watery bloodlessness. Often we remark that we envy them their vitality and keen interest in the affairs of life.

There is no need for envy if the bloodless delicate ones will pay attention to health and make good their deficiency of blood. There is sound advice in the suggestion that all such ailing men and women should begin without delay a course of Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people, for the reason that these pills make the good red blood of health and give the high spirits, energy and attraction that go with it. If you are pale, anaemic and nervous now, these pills will pull you up. The first promising sign will be a natural healthy appetite; then the headaches, feeling of weariness and aching in the limbs will disappear, and your nerves will become steady.

Now is the time to begin Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Get a supply from any dealer; or direct and post free, $1.50 the bottle, $8/- for six bottles, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

What MILTON is and what it DOES

You have nothing to-day with which to compare Milton. It is not a "cure all," yet in one bottle of Milton you obtain an article which will perform more than 101 every-day services—services for which you to-day buy a dozen or more different preparations. Milton does every one of these thoroughly, reliably, quickly. To be able to perform so many widely varying services, Milton must, of course, be a powerful fluid. It is powerful. But (and this is perhaps its most astonishing feature) it is absolutely harmless, perfectly safe. It can be used freely, or the bottle may be left standing about without the least anxiety. For Milton, although it is so powerful and effective, is non-poisonous; it will not burn or stain the hands or skin; it will not take fire or explode; it is clear and clean; and what little smell it has disappears almost immediately after use. Among the many uses of Milton are—

For preventing cold in the head, influenza and winter ailments.
For destroying bad smells.
For removing stains without injury even to the most delicate fabrics.
For use as a mouth wash, dentifrice and nasal douche.
For freshening the air after tobacco smoke.
For eliminating all vermin.

This sounds almost unbelievable, but a trial very quickly convinces. And isn't it worth trying? If in one bottle you can have a safe, harmless but powerful fluid which can be of service to you in so many different ways, can you afford to be without it? The cost is so small to become convinced. An a bottle lasts a long time—it is economical. Get a bottle to-day. You will be astonished at the results.

SOLD IN 2 SIZES—8 OUNCES and 20 OUNCES — EACH MAKES GALLONS. Take MILTON in your house. Get it of your Chemist or Grocer. If he does not stock MILTON write Probst, Hanbury & Co., Ltd., 10 Nanking Road, Shanghai.

Why So Many Americans Are Physical Wrecks at 50—

Physician Explains How Signs of Old Age Creep Into Your System When the Iron in Your Blood Runs Low—

Says Weak, Nervous, Run-Down People Should Take Nuxated Iron to Steady the Nerves, Restore Wasted Tissue and Aid in Giving Renewed Force and Power to the Body.

Are you slipping at 50?
Can you actually stand what you could twenty years ago when your strength and energy are put to the test?
Or do you merely think you are "just as good?"
Is your heart pumping pure red blood—rich in iron—through your veins.
Or it is merely a passage for thin, pale, watery blood without enough red corpuscles to keep your body strong and well?

THE FUTURE
Does Middle Age Find You Standing On The Precipice Of Uncertainty — Your Blood Starving For Want of Iron?
ARE YOU SINKING AT MIDDLE AGE?
MIDDLE AGE

These are the questions put by Dr. H. B. Vail, formerly Physician in the Baltimore Hospital and a Medical Examiner, who contends that a man's age can no longer be measured by the number of his years but by the condition of his blood. Dr. Vail believes that the greatest problem of modern life is to ward off the tragedy of middle age, which begins to show its signs the moment the iron in the blood runs low.

Continuing, Dr. Vail says: "There are thousands whose bodies are ageing and breaking down at a time when they should be enjoying that perfect bodily health which cries defiance to disease simply because they are not awake to the condition of their blood. By allowing it to remain thin, pale and watery they are not giving the natural life forces of the body a chance to do their work. Yet others go through life apparently possessing, year after year, the elasticity, the strength and the energy of earlier days, for through their bodies courses the energy and power that comes from plenty of red blood—filled with strength-giving iron. Iron is red blood food and in my experience I have found no better means for building up the red blood corpuscles and helping to give increased power to the blood than organic iron—Nuxated Iron, which I have prescribed with surprising success for my patients who are approaching middle life. I took Nuxated Iron myself to build me up after a serious case of nervous exhaustion. The effects were apparent after a few days and within three weeks it had virtually revitalized my whole system and put me in a superb physical condition."

Dr. John J. Van Horne, formerly Medical Inspector and Clinical Physician on the Board of Health of the City of New York, says: "Strength and vitality of body and mind are derived from the blood and the blood in turn derives it from the food we eat and the oxygen contained in the air we breathe. But unless the blood is rich in iron to increase its oxygen carrying power, it cannot develop living tissue, muscle and brain or keep active the vital forces. Strong, healthy men and women with plenty of iron in their blood are the ones who go through life with a smile, self-reliant and fearless and their dynamic power and energy make them virtually masters of their own destinies. It is surprising how many people who do not get along in life are in reality suffering from iron deficiency and do not know it. To supply this lack of iron and help build stronger, healthier men and women, better able physically to meet the problems of everyday life, I believe that physicians should, at every opportunity, prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for in my experience it is one of the best tonic and red blood builders known to medical science."

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people, who were ailing all the while, have surprisingly increased their strength and endurance in 2 weeks' time in many instances.

Blinded by the belief that he is still "just as good as ever," many a man reaches that point of life between 40 and 50 where the future looks bright and assured only to find that the grim relentless force of middle age has undermined his health and energy. In the rush and tear of modern day life he has neglected to keep his blood filled with strength-giving iron, and as a result is on the verge of a physical and nervous breakdown, at a time when he should be enjoying his best years.

Physicians explain here why such men need the sustaining health-building power of organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to help make rich, red blood, restore wasted tissue and increase their physical strength and endurance.

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians, is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

RUSSO-JAPAN WAR BEING PREDICTED

Strained Relations Between Chita And Tokio Cause Rumors

That relations between the Far Eastern Russian authorities and the Japanese are becoming so strained that rumors of another Russo-Japanese war are current in Vladivostok is the message brought back to Japan by Major Tamura, who arrived at Tsuruga recently and was interviewed by a representative of the Nichi Nichi.

"While it is not likely that things will assume such a dangerous turn," he is quoted as saying, "the fact must be admitted that if the results of the Constitutional Conference be found harmful to the legitimate interests of Japan, the armies of the two countries may clash in a conflict of more than local importance. The situation is strained and the rumors of a possible Russo-Japanese war arise from this condition."

Although the Chita authorities have requested the Japanese to withdraw their military force from Siberia, the Nichi Nichi reports that there is little likelihood that the troops will be withdrawn until adequate guarantees for the safety of Japanese subjects in the districts now under the influence of the Chita Government are given. Resumption of trade with Russia, it notes, will also wait upon such guarantees.

Firo, fanned by a strong wind, raged in Tanimachi and Ichigava, Ushigomeku, all afternoon of December 27 and was only gotten under control by the fire fighting forces from many stations, aided by a detachment of soldiers from the First Regiment, after it had destroyed more than a hundred houses and shops, reports the Japan Advertiser.

KINGMAN & BROS.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filing with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand write as follows in their exchange circular for week ending Wednesday, January 5.

Exchange:—The London Silver market throughout the past week has remained comparatively steady, and only a drop of ¼d. for spot and ⅛d. forward has to be recorded since this day last week, today's prices being 41⅜ and 41⅞ respectively. Exchange rates locally have similarly ruled steady, and business has been done generally at a premium ranging between 2½d. and 1d. over official quotations.

Little change is noticeable in the local market, transactions have only been on a very moderate scale and then chiefly of a speculative nature, exports still remain abnormally dull and the demand for gold remittance on the part of importers has been small.

MILLIONS IN CASH HELP TOKIO BANK

Two Financial Institutions Place Money At Disposal And Save Chozo Ginko

Large amounts of cash, said to total Y50,000,000, advanced by four of the biggest banks in Japan, enabled the Tokio Chozo Ginko, or Tokio Savings Bank, to meet all demands for payment on December 7. The run on the bank, which began at noon on the sixth contained all day yesterday, despite the heavy snow, and during the day there were lines of anxious depositors outside practically all the fifteen branches of the bank. The run extended even to the Yokohama branch.

The banks supporting the Savings Bank were the Hundredth Bank, the president of which, Mr. Kenzo Ikeda, is also president of the savings bank and the First Bank, while the support of two more great banks—the Bank of Japan—was also lent the Chozo Ginko. The amount in cash advanced by these four banks is said to be enough to meet the entire remnant of the bank's deposits.

More than Y8,000,000 was paid out on the sixth when the savings bank's branches continued payment until midnight. Indications were yesterday that the run was coming to an end and that no serious consequences to the general state of business in Japan would ensue.

Stories that the bank had made unwise speculations are said to have started the run.

At Yokohama the bank's branch office had a run on December 7 more than 200 persons claiming their deposits. About noon they were reassured by the promise to pay out at par, and left the office. In the afternoon, according to a Yokohama dispatch, everything was normal. The day's payment was only Y120,000 to Y130,000 while the total of deposits reached Y1,530,000.

Strikes Are Reduced By Half During Year Is Report In Tokio

Depression And Intelligence Of Workmen Believed Cause Of Less Labor Trouble

According to the investigation of the Section of Labor of the Metropolitan Police, the total of strikes in 1920 was 60, a decrease from the previous year, and the number of the workmen who went on strike is 12,198. Other minor conflicts between labor and capital bring the total to 72. The year before 135 strikes and 23,052 workmen engaged in strikes are reported.

The chief of the section says in the Jiji that the decrease of strikes by 75 cases is due to the economic depression and the establishment of institutions aiming at the reconciliation of labor and capital. Enlightenment among the workmen can not be passed unnoticed, he says, and the result is that they do not take such irrational measures as was the case a few years ago.

"Incorporate The American Community"

IN reply to the article by Mr. William S. Fleming under the above caption we have received the following letter:

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: I think that many of your readers will, like myself, be somewhat surprised at the suggestion made by Mr. Fleming that the Americans here should ask Congress to pass a special law to enable them to make special laws for themselves in China. This seems to me to be a very strange way of going about things in this the twentieth century. At present we have our Municipal Council or Communal Council which is elected by the ratepayers without any national distinctions and as long as it is run on democratic lines as at present I cannot see that the Americans here should ask for special treatment or special privileges. If the Americans here are not satisfied with the present arrangements this must be due to their own neglect of their present opportunities. As long as they have their due share in the voting for the local Council, and, I think, have a representative on the Council they have no ground for complaint to the Congress at Washington.

The question of an exclusively American school is one I think that could best be dealt with by the Municipal Council. I think if properly approached there would be no difficulty in getting the Council to establish schools which would be staffed by American teachers, and conducted in accordance with American methods of education. I am rather inclined myself in favor of a variety in education, and would allow parents to send their children to any school they liked in Shanghai whether the lessons are in English, Chinese or Russian. I would even say that the Municipal Council should establish several new schools which should be staffed by American, Japanese, Koreans, and Russian teachers, and where all the lessons would be in these different langages. Will the Americans take the lead in this matter and ask the Japanese, Koreans, and Russians to join them in approaching the Municipal Council about this question?

It must not, however, be lost sight of that this community is not American but International. This was the basis upon which the English forefathers arranged matters, and I think we should follow their wise statesmanlike policy. In fact all the schools in Shanghai are international, and it is a very common thing for a teacher to have five or six nationalities in his class.

Now that international politics are being dealt with by a League of Nations it is important that we in Shanghai should work together as a body and firmly establish our own League of Nations, which for us is the Municipal Council. It is very important in such a mixed community as this that we should all pull together, and in one direction. We must have combination, and sectionalism or an exclusive national spirit should not be encouraged. Unity is strength, and any sectional movement simply weakens the communal life.

Yours sincerely,
J. A. J.

Jan. 5 1921.

We think that our correspondent, whom we assume to be British, has accorded Mr. Fleming's article only cursory attention, and has replied to it without having caught the real spirit and purpose of its proposals.

The American community in Shanghai is confronted by the fact that the International Settlement is operated by the British and that the French Settlement in which many Americans reside is operated by the French. But Mr. Fleming is not quarrelling with that fact. He does not propose to change that condition. It is merely one that must be faced. And how is it to be faced?

His proposed solution is that the American communities in China be organised and incorporated as such in their respective consular districts. To quote:

"And in the formation and administration of such corporations there should in no way be a conflict with the jurisdiction and authority of our own officials, the Municipal Councils of the Settlements or the Chinese Government, because, if incorporated, this and other American Communities in China would only supplement the work of the other organised and existing sources of administration and would only operate to supply a few things which we require and which they cannot give."

The position is that the American communities in China are heavily taxed both here and at home. He does not propose that the local taxation be cut off or diverted, but he does propose that the taxes which Americans now send home be diverted for the use of Americans in this community. And the funds thus accumulated could be collected, administered and disbursed only by a properly incorporated community, organised on the lines of American communities at home.

Thus, it seems to us, without for the present replying to the other matters brought up by our correspondent, that he has wholly misunderstood Mr. Fleming's proposals.

Curiosities Of Arsenic

(Daily Mail)

Arsenic is so extensively used in the industries and arts that it is believed that there are few of us who have not a little of it in our bodies.

Formerly a good deal of chronic poisoning resulted from arsenic in wall-paper, the poison being given off in powder and also as a gas in warm, moist weather. Many wall-papers still contain very small quantities of the poison. It is also present in some artificial flowers, in carpets, furs, dress fabrics dyed with aniline dyes, and in black stockings.

It has been found in many cosmetic preparations which women use to improve the complexion and brilliancy of the eyes, accidents from these preparations being on record.

Dr. Murrell examined a number of colored tobacco and cigarette covers and found arsenic in one-third of them. Used as an insecticide for spraying fruit, it remains on the skins and is sometimes eaten.

Glucose very frequently contains arsenic, and thence it finds its way into jams and beer. Many persons were poisoned in Manchester some years ago by arsenic in beer made with glucose, and the analyses of the Government analyst show that the poison is present in small quantities in many samples of beer.

Of course, these minute doses seldom do any harm, but in some people they produce chronic poisoning, with loss of hair, neuritis, and other evil results.

This drug is poisonous to all animals with a central nervous system (brain or spinal cord) and to most of the higher plants. Mice show the greatest resistance and next come hedgehogs, rabbits, dogs, and cats.

It is believed that the smallest fatal dose for an adult human being is 2 grains, but people have taken a very much greater quantity and recovered. By practice one can get used to large doses; the mountaineers of Styria eat as much as 8 grains two or three times a week and find the dose a good tonic.

* * *

Long ago arsenic was extensively used for the purposes of murder, and Mme. Toffania, an Italian, has become immortal in the annals of crime from her preparation, the "Aqua Taffana," made from animals poisoned with arsenic.

Although many deaths still occur by accident or suicide, arsenic is seldom used for criminal poisoning by intelligent people now, because the analyst can find it in the body for years after death. It has a peculiarly preservative effect, and in one case of exhumation after 37-half months' burial (that of John Flanagan, of Liverpool, in 1884) the face and body could easily be identified.

There have been great epidemics of accidental arsenic poisoning. The most remarkable case was that in Paris in 1828, when 40,000 people were poisoned. Also there have been many accidents from weed-killers, and in 1903 an analysis of sweets in the Isle of Wight revealed the presence of 1-15th of a grain per pound.

A curious fact is that when a person takes arsenic it finds its way into the hair within about two weeks and stays there for years.

SIR HERBERT BEERBOHM TREE'S AMERICAN IMPRESSIONS

"It is always polite to accommodate oneself to the customs of the country in which one is a guest, making due allowance for the inhabitants being 'foreigners.' This applies even to languages. 'Let us take the lift,' said I to a prominent citizen. 'Elevator we call it,' corrected my companion. A motor was waiting outside. 'Can I give you an elevator in my car?' I asked. And we parted friends.

"I found no difficulty in acclimatising myself to the more democratic habit of the people—whether in the theater, in the hotel, or in general company. The employees of the theater soon brought home to me that the 'star' system is only tolerated in the 'Spangled Banner.' At first it seemed strange to get no answering 'Sir' when I gave an order, so I took to addressing the servants as 'Sir.' A modus vivendi was thus gradually established, and I found myself addressed as 'Boss.' Life is full of compromises."

OTHELLO WITHOUT PAINT

"The negroes seemed to me for the most part kindly people, and their formalities and social amenities are a perpetual source of interest and delight. They are somewhat resentful if spoken of as blacks, preferring to be described as darkies, or colored gentlemen. In an hotel I said to a colored female attendant: 'I should like to have my shoes darkened.' She replied: 'Sir, that's not my compartment—its de boot boy.' I said: 'Will you kindly ask the boot boy to darken them?' She lamented that she was not on speaking terms with the gentleman owing to a difference in their religious views; but she would communicate with the bell-boy on the subject, who would communicate with 'boots.'"

TREE'S IDEA OF ROOSEVELT

(He was writing during the war, and before Colonel Roosevelt had died.)

"The personality which, after President Wilson, has the greatest national appeal is undoubtedly that of Colonel Roosevelt, whose courage, patriotic fervour and catapultic force 'get over' the people. But the situation needed a Brutus rather than an Anthony. Probably no living man did more to create respect for the American flag than did Roosevelt during his Presidential term. If in his retirement he lacked something of the reticence we associate with greatness, one must remember that in captivity the lion is apt to roar at the mouse. There can be little doubt that had the Colonel cultivated cabbages and held his tongue, he would have been President of the United States at this present minute. Undoubtedly this 'fiery particle' has, and will have, a dominant influence in the creation of the American army which is in the making. The God of War has need of such a man."

* * *

PRESIDENT WILSON

"All in all, the Americans have need to congratulate themselves that Mr. Wilson remained in office. Indeed, since the President's great war message the entire country has accepted him as its official idol. One must admire the whole-hearted national faith in a leader, whose tact, patience and singlemindedness have come to be recognised by his bitterest opponents.

"By appearing to be holding back, he allowed the people to push him on. In this situation the President showed the fierce patience of a Jew."

NOT BAD FOR A YOUNG COUNTRY

"Shortly after my arrival in America I started off for California to fulfil a picture contract. We spent our Christmas at the Grand Canyon. On our arrival a blinding snowstorm blotted out the view. We turned our backs upon the mountains and were making for our hotel when the snow stopped and light came. On looking back we saw the mountains in cold, barren grandeur. At first they seemed like the habitation of some forbidding god—one was appalled by the vast uselessness of this empty waste—not a tree, not a shrub was to be seen. But Nature had surprises yet in store and soon provided us with a feast of infinite variety. Now from the valley ascended a curtain of white mist. The act was finished. After an interlude of five minutes the curtain slowly rose; the sun burst forth, and, shining through the dissolving mists, revealed the most wonderful transformation scene I have ever witnessed, as Nature in a frolic mood threw prismatic somersaults—three rain bows spanned the horizon.

"A voice behind me disturbed the spell: 'Not bad for a young country, Boss!' it remarked. I assured the speaker that it was very promising."

Henry Arthur Jones's Answer To H. G. Wells

Dean Of English Playwrights Combats The Russian Conclusions Of Novelist

Under the title "My Dear Wells" this open letter appeared in The London Evening Standard after the publication of Mr. Wells's first article in the series on Russia which The China Press has been reprinting.

My Dear Wells:

I hope it will cause you a pleasurable emotion to know that the coal strike has delayed my departure from England for a few days. This enables us to keep in touch, with each other, while I examine your opening account of what is happening in Russia.

I have never known a man so determined to expose the fallacies of internationalism as yourself. You might have rested content with your masterly arraignment of International Government in that wonderful paper constitution you drew up for mid-Africa, so full of an ironic significance—which perhaps you scarcely perceived. But having furnished us with an admirable theoretical condemnation of internationalism, you proceed to make a trip to Russia in order to show us what internationalism is like when it puts its theories into practice.

'SUPPED FULL OF HORRORS'

Your description of Russian conditions, sickening and heart-breaking as it is, adds nothing to what we knew of them. We have supped full of these horrors. They have been rehearsed to us adnauseam by scores of travelers and residents who have had a much longer, more vivid, more poignant experience of these dreadful realities than yourself. You might have stayed at home and verified the overwhelming evidence already brought to us from Russia. But you would go there and see these things for yourself. Well, you have seen them, and you confirm our general knowledge of the hopeless misery, oppression, famine, disease and despair that daily tighten their hold upon the masses of the Russian people.

We are all in substantial agreement about the facts. We accept your summary of them as correct, so far as it goes. No eye can survey the boundless misery and horror that prevail in Russia. No pen can describe them. Pity has drained her eyes, and has no more tears to shed. Let us make one shuddering guess at the illimitable dimensions of this abomination of the earth and then take your description of it as a faint image of something too vast to comprehend, too monstrous to imagine.

WHAT WERE THE CAUSES?

With this impression in our minds, let us seek for some interpretation of the ghastly facts that you have related to us. How has the present condition of Russia been brought about?

In my last letter I pointed out to you that you had a splendid chance for rehabilitating your reputation as a political thinker by frankly declaring that international proletarian government has proved itself to be a hideous failure. I cannot but think you would have been wise to take that chance. You would have had all the facts on your side. I own that I did not expect you would fall in with my suggestion. You have written much to prove that international government by the proletariat is the panacea for all the ills that afflict this planet: that it was too much to hope you would change your opinion merely because it happened to be opposed to all the crying and salient facts.

Therefore, I pointed out to you a second course. You could let yourself down gently, hedge and palter with this remorseless question that threatens to strangle every nation that cannot solve it aright, and that will allow no nation to have peace and security until it is solved. You have not definitely taken that second course.

MR. WELLS'S EXPLANATION

I further pointed out to you that you had a third course—to proclaim boldly that international proletarian government had answered all your expectations, fulfilled all your prophecies, and that the present condition of Russia is a triumphant justification of your theories. In presence of the universal misery, bankruptcy, disease and starvation that you have pictured you could scarcely take this third course. But in your recent paper you go as near to it as you dare. You evidently lean toward it, and should whole-heartedly adopt it if it were not for the thousand damnable facts that thunder its refutation. So what do you do? You admit the facts; indeed, you dilate and enlarge upon them; then you try to explain them away in a sense that is favorable to Bolshevist government.

Let us examine your explanation. You contend that the present terrible condition of Russia is not the result of Bolshevist rule, but of "capitalism," "European imperialism" and an "atrocious blockade."

You allow that capitalism built the great cities of Russia. Under communism their population has shrunk to about half its former numbers, is still diminishing, and is living in progressive misery and starvation. Further, the Communist Government is seeking to trade with England. Now that it has almost destroyed its own capital it is begging capitalist England to bring it capital to start its industries again.

With regard to imperialism, which I am not here concerned to uphold, tell me what imperial State has governed its helpless people with such ruthless tyranny and cruelty as the present rulers of Russia? Under what imperial States has there been anything approaching such famished misery and universal impoverishment as you have lately witnessed? I ask you to explain by your theory how it is that now imperialism has been removed these terrible conditions are progressive; that they increase in severity and horror in the degree and according to the length of time that the Russian people are removed from the consequences of imperial government, and as they pass under the rule of the present Government and live under the operation of Communist laws? Ponder this question, my dear Wells.

THE BLOCKADE

As for the blockade, without pressing the argument that it was necessary to stay the tide of Bolshevism from flooding Europe, it can scarcely be maintained that the privations and hunger caused by the blockade have been at all comparable with the privations and hunger caused by the Communist law, which forces the peasants to deliver food at regulated prices, and thus, by taking from them the reward of their labor, takes from them also all incentive to work when they have supplied their own wants. There is the master key of the situation in Russia, my dear Wells. It is in your own hands, if you will but use it.

Now let us inquire upon whose shoulders you lay the blame for the frightful ruin of civilisation. Whom do you hold responsible? Obviously you cannot blame the present rulers of Russia. For that would condemn all your cherished theories. Besides, you have lauded them as "shining clear," "profoundly wise"—a model for our own statesmen. You are bound in honor and consistency to shield and absolve the Bolshevist leaders. Whom, then, will you choose for the scapegoats? You look around, and you fix upon the "vindictive French creditor" and the "journalistic British oaf." These, you contend, are far more responsible than any Communist.

Ah, these "vindictive French creditors." They have borne the brunt of the war, their land has been pillaged and devastated, and now they are so vindictive as to wish to be paid their just debts! God, what an outrage upon all sound Communistic principles!

IN A DILEMMA

And the journalistic British oaf? One of these journalistic British oafs has lately died from the effects of imprisonment in a Bolshevist prison. Well, at any rate, he has got his deserts. Serves him right, the oaf, for causing all this starvation and misery by daring to tell the truth about it! Let us hope you will now castigate the other journalistic oafs. Spare them not!

My dear Wells, could you not have made a better, or, at least, a more plausible, selection of scapegoats? I know you were in a dilemma. You had to fix the responsibility for all this misery upon somebody. But do make another review of the whole situation. Bearing in mind that you are "thinking for half Europe," do you seriously affirm that the present terrible condition of Russia is in any measure due to the "vindictive French creditor" and the "journalistic British oaf"? If, after due consideration, you say such is your honest belief, I entreat you to distrust your mental processes.

Why, my dear Wells, do you not perceive that this filthy bog of misery, disease, starvation and despair, wherein the Russian people grope and perish, is the very garden of paradise of your international dreams, the land flowing with milk and honey whereto you and your fellow-theorists have been leading them, and cheering them on to possess it? Now you have reached the promised land, you do not recognise it. It isn't in the least like the paradise you had mapped out in your head. The strange things that get into our heads!

'IN ITS TRUE PROPORTIONS'

I notice that you promise some further description of Russian conditions, so that we can "see and estimate the Bolshevist Government in its true proportions." This is a matter upon which your views will be of absorbing interest to me. Especially I beg you to "estimate in its true proportions" the recent attempt of Lenin to corrupt our navy. Give us some guidance on this point.

I have also seen it announced that you intend to exercise your prophetic powers, and, more or less definitely, to adumbrate the future of Russia. Now, my dear Wells, as your constant and faithful mentor, I implore you not to prophesy about the future of Russia. Remember all the things you prophesied about during the war. After your handling of the past and present Russia, do you think it will be wise of you to tackle the future?

Besides, Archibald Spofforth is on the watch for you the moment you begin to prophesy about anything. You will remember that I had to defend you against him when, in his "Noted English Seers," he classed you as being, on the whole, rather less trustworthy in dealing with world problems than Old Moore. I hope I am not betraying any confidence when I tell you that Spofforth is anxiously looking out for your prognostications about Russia. Spofforth has a brutal disrespect for your theories. Don't give him a chance. Rebuke him by holding a dignified silence about the future of Russia.

A PROPHECY

If I am not usurping your prerogative, I will myself make a prophecy about the future of Russia. Russia will return to tolerable conditions of life, to order, health, security and prosperity in the measure that she returns to and obeys those first abiding principles of social conduct and civilised government which are always and everywhere in operation; which fortify and preserve a State if they are obeyed; which disintegrate and destroy a State if they are disobeyed.

What those first abiding principles of civilised government are, together with the incidence and rigor of their operation, I propose to explain to you as I find leisure and opportunity. Meantime I await your further deliverances upon Russian affairs and will deal with them as they reach me, at home or abroad. Faithfully yours,

HENRY ARTHUR JONES.

Explaining The Irish

By JAMES DUNN, AN IRISHMAN
(Daily Mail)

One of these days there will be a settlement of the Irish problem—in the valley of Jehosophat.

The difference between an Englishman and an Irishman is the Irishman.

An angry Englishman is usually dangerous; an angry Irishman is always eloquent.

An Irishman cannot tell an anecdote; he imparts a serial story.

Many Scotsmen are bankrupt because they believed that the Irish had no capacity for business.

A silent Irishman is as harmless as a powder magazine built over a match factory.

An Irishman deprived of a grievance against England is robbed of his birthright.

The best thing about an Irishman is an Irish woman.

When an Englishman makes a joke somebody laughs. When an Irishman jokes somebody suffers.

When an Englishman hurts your feelings he may apologise. When an Irishman apologises he always hurts your feelings.

You cannot force an Irishman to eat his dinner, but you can persuade him to commit suicide.

England is a pawnshop where the Irish pledge past grievances—and sell the tickets.

Ireland is suffering from a slur on its future.

The Irish don't hate the English because they are English; they dislike them because they are not Irish.

The English have always governed Ireland with a monocle in their accent.

An Englishman who tries to understand the Irish will have one foot in the nursery and the other in a lunatic asylum.

Everybody listens to an Irishman—except another Irishman.

The Irish believe in fairies but bargain in pigs.

The English and the Irish are very much alike; but the Irish are more so.

An Englishman will kill you with a curse; an Irishman with an apology.

When Ireland is peaceful it will be a land not perhaps of saints but certainly of cemeteries.

Is Your Boy A Slouch?

By Dr. Wm. A. McKeever
(Professor in the University of Kansas and an Authority on Child Training)

He walks humped over, rather low and with his hands deep in his pockets.

He leans, often and at long intervals, against walls, fences and buildings with the attitude of nothing to do and nowhere to go.

He slouches in his speech; is careless in the choice of words, drags them out in a lazy manner and makes no apparent effort to be effective.

He slouches in his thought. Never takes a decisive stand on any given question, never offers a clear, positive opinion and seems ready at any time either to dodge an issue or to swing over to the popular side of a discussion.

Is your boy a slouch like the foregoing example, through and through, and all over? If so, correct the tendency while you may, for the adult slouch scarcely ever recovers from his ailment. If he shows even a tendency to indifference and indecision, try some of the following measures on him:

Train your boy to walk erect, with head up, with firm step and with a rhythmic swing to the body. This attitude of a wide-awake body will tend to quicken the mind and to increase the self-respect.

Teach your boy to harbor a healthy dislike for the leaner. Explain to him the fact that many people secretly disapprove the slouch, or the lazy curbstone idler; that they rate him meanly in their private conversation, and thus make it hard for him to obtain favorable employment or social advantage.

Teach your boy to observe a motto of at least seeming at all times to have something important to do. He can be shown how to attract favorable opinion to himself by merely assuming an air of business enterprise.

Likewise, the slovenly speech of your boy may be eliminated. In addressing him, for the sake of the effect here in mind, use the quick, forceful style of utterance. There is a powerful stimulus in the well-pitched, animated voice. Also the law of imitation will operate here, correct speech is "catching," as we say.

Finally, in order to teach the boy to think with clearness and directness, ply him with questions and remarks that invite a careful weighing of his words. Admit of no indecision or unfinished statements. Crowd him to the point, compelling him to say what he means and to mean what he says.

Oftentimes underneath the slouchiness manifested by your boy there may lurk a minor physical ailment. The slouch may be suffering from a chronic "tired feeling" resulting from an ill-balance of sleep, diet and exercise. Dr. Styles found that hook worms manifested as their symptoms a very marked degree of slouchiness, and that the cure of the disease made a cure of the slouching habit an easy matter.

Out of all this minor treatment of your boy—this change in his action, speech and thinking—there must certainly evolve an entirely new habit of self pride. He must project himself in thought and so induce himself in deed to become a youth of superb bearing and attainment. For what he habitually thinks he is, what he habitually thinks he can accomplish—be it high or low—that goal he will most certainly approach as time passes.

Now, strip the slouching all away from your boy, allowing ample time and persistent effort for the undertaking, and make him instead a creature of charm and admiration.

For The Stout Woman

BY RITA STUYVESANT

Every once in a while, when all the fashion world has turned its eyes to the slim model, letters come to me asking for help with the ill-considered stout. And yet the stout woman can appear so graceful if she is corseted and gowned correctly. One has only to drop into a shop where they cater to the needs of the stout to really appreciate the truth.

Here the needs are studied so carefully that one realises the study of designing for the stout figure is decidedly an art. And again, one is reminded of the folly of putting one's system through such an ordeal as the reducing cures demand, just for the sake of looking stylish in one's clothes.

The most popular garment for the stout figure is the tailored suit. And then next in importance comes the lines on which the designer builds his material. One model that boasts no superfluous frills, but suggests only well-planned lines is developed in navy tricotine, oxford cloth or dark tweed.

It is a mannish affair with notched revers, beautifully bound in black silk braid. The coat falls considerably below the hips—in fact, almost reaching the knee—and shows a slight incurve at the waistline. Three horizontal slit pockets on either side of front are finished with tiny black bone buttons.

For afternoon wear there are innumerable stunning models for stately figures that tend to reduce one's size. Charmense or even tricotine, may be chosen among the favored materials, and for the colors, black or navy blue are the most sought after; although henna, brown, taupe, wine shades, hemlock green and various shades of blue may also be used.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

Oh, I have seen folks in such piteous plight that my heart with compassion was stirred, for the crosses that come to some chaps are a fright, and it seems that misfortune must take a delight in the troubles that they have incurred. Once I heard of a cyclone that camped on the trail of a hard-working adult named Smith. Prepare to shed tears as you list to this tale, for when it departed this cold-blooded gale had wiped out his kin and his kith. Not a loved one remained; he was plunged in despair, and (attend to this portion with awe) he found that said cyclone had marred him for fair, for it left him his mother-in-law! I have heard grisly stories of earthquake and fire and distresses that surely play hob; it would seem for some people events must conspire to squelch their ambition and fondest desire, with the Jinx always right on the job. However, the most of my pity is kept for a gloom that no power can dispel, and tears of pure sympathy often I've wept for poor little lady who has to accept a secret and vow not to tell. Oh, taking of agony, double-distilled, can you fancy conditions more dire than the case of a maiden whose head is just filled with a theme that would keep all her friends simply thrilled, and a temperament like the town-crier? Consider her woe when she dare not tell Nan: "Here's a secret I've only just heard! Dear Christobel told it this morning to Annie, Annie passed it to Kitty, who whispered to Fan; and now, you, dear, must not say a word!" What's the use of a secret you cannot pass on? Any lady would think it too droll, for the thing about secrets that's really most fun is in lifting the veil on some choice skeleton and remarking: "Now don't tell a soul!"

Underfed Children

BY BRICE BELDEN, M. D.

Many children who are in poor condition to meet the demands of school life are suffering from malnutrition. These youngsters are not receiving at home the kind of meals or the sufficiency of food which they need, and the results are manifest in both physical and mental deterioration.

In New York City the estimate of the number of cases of malnutrition made by medical men studying the condition of children in the elementary schools varies from 5 percent to 40 percent.

Malnutrition or undernourishment is due to poor hygiene resulting often from such conditions as overcrowded living quarters or ignorance of food values. It would be impossible to reach the problem of malnutrition among school children through these great general factors, but in the case of the individual child we have definite material to work with.

The undernourished child is a victim of poor assimilation or may be devitalised through a lack of sufficient clothing in cold weather. Over-stimulation through such drugs as tea and coffee may be the underlying cause of malnutrition.

The underfed child is likely to be stunted in growth, while his height, weight and chest measurements are often below the average of those of normal children. These handicaps, together with the tendency to delayed mental and physical development and weak muscles, render the child more susceptible to infectious diseases, to say nothing of an increased liability to the dread tuberculosis.

Not only does this type of child easily fall victim to disease but his convalescence is more retarded than that of his more fortunate and wellfed brother, and the likelihood of complications during the disease is greatly increased. The loss of education and training through mental dulness, and the time lost through illness, are also serious drawbacks in the struggle for existence.

The only present remedies in sight are the institution of school lunches to correct home disadvantages, open-air classes for undernourished children, including exercise for correction of physical defects, and the utilisation of school nurses and home visitors who are fully equipped to cope with this social problem.
